

Yellowstone NP Ash Fall Risk

Current projections show significant threat from ash fall within the 500 km area surrounding Yellowstone National Park in the event of a major eruption. 35 population centers are currently within that impact zone (above). Ash fall is expected to be worst near the park's caldera, with up to 2126mm falling within the 250 km closest to the source (left)